INTRODUCTION TO THE READINGS THIS WEEKEND

First Reading

Abraham begs to be allowed to offer hospitality to his divine visitors. Our deepest privilege is to serve God: may we never regard it as a burden.

Second Reading

Paul insists that he is happy to suffer. To a godless mentality, this is absurd, but our faith gives us the hope that God's power is at work in suffering, and where God is at work, there is happiness.

Gospel

Jesus is not disparaging the busy-ness of hospitality, but the 'better part,' from which all the tasks of our discipleship arise, is attending to the Lord and his word.
